Good food for good causes

As part of the 25th annual Food and Wine Magazine Classic — the celeb-chef-studded cooking and wine-tasting shindig that takes over Aspen in mid-June — the food mag has launched a fund-raiser for small American farms called Grow for Good. In addition to donating part of the ticket sales to Farm to Table, a national sustainable agriculture organization, the magazine is also hosting an online auction at www.foodandwine.com/growforgood.

Now you can help support those South Jersey heirloom tomatoes while you scoop up still-reasonably priced items like a brunch for two by Marcus Samuelsson. The bidding runs till June 29.
